THE LATE RIOT.

Mayor Wood's Interview with Gov. King.

THAT BOGUS "STORMY CONFERENCE."

Who is Street Commissioner?

Mr. Conover Couldn't See the Mayor to Submit his Sureties.

IMPORTANT LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

Commissioner Cholwell Arrested and Alderman Wilson Bailed.

IS MAYOR WOOD RESTRAINED OF HIS LIBERTY?

Mr. Conover Prepares a Quo Warranto.

The City Flags Raised Over the City Hall Yet.

The late riot in the Park continues to be the theme of conversation, though by 3 P. M. of yesterday, all the policemen had been ordered away from the City Hall, although there was no crowd there, and the public generally knew that no late scenes like those of the previous day were to be expected. Although there was no crowd, there were a great many persons upon the steps of the City Hall, and in the vicinity, during the whole afternoon, though the Street Commissioner's office was open as usual for ordinary business. Mr. Devlin, being in the house of the late Joseph S. Taylor, Esq., and although there was nothing but the funeral of the deceased to attract a crowd, many persons visited the house during the afternoon, to express their sympathy with the family of the deceased, and of the Mayor's victory. There was nothing unusually noticed about but "the boys in blue." Police were quartered in the City Hall, but were not visible. Many persons passed through the whole of the rooms. Whether they were dry as a chip or not when they were taken in or not, we have failed to discover.

MAYOR WOOD'S CONFERENCE WITH GOV. KING.

Mr. Alderman Shotwell, who, under the circumstances, ought to know, assures us that what was published as the Mayor's version of the interview with the Governor, was inaccurate in several respects. In the first place he says the Governor did not seek the interview, and, therefore, did not send "two of his personal and political friends" as Ambassadors to the Mayor to ask for it. The way it came about was this: Mr. Charles Stetson, of the Astor House, called on Mayor Wood to request his approval of an ordinance lately passed by the Common Council, in favor of narrowing the sidewalk in Vesey-street by it. Paul's Church-yard. Mr. Stetson—it was a business communication—mentioned that Gov. King was at the Astor House, and doubtless would be happy to receive a call from Mr. Wood. Mr. Stetson, soon after he left the Mayor, met Mr. Shotwell, and said: "Mr. Shotwell, just am acquainted with the Mayor. I wish you would see him about that bill, and at the same time invite him to come and see the Governor." Mr. Shotwell accordingly went over to the Mayor's office about 1½ o'clock. After speaking outside of the ordinance, Mr. S. mentioned that the Governor was at the Astor House, and that he (Mr. S.) would be glad if the Mayor would go over and pay His Excellency a visit of courtesy. The Mayor said he would be happy to do so, for he had very pleasant recollections connected with the Governor, but he was fearful that his visit would be misconstrued, for the papers had published a rumor that the Governor intended to take him out of office. Mr. S. advised him to believe the efforts of rumors, telling him that as the Chief Magistrate of the City it was his duty to call on the Chief Magistrate of the State who was his superior officer, and render his respects. The Mayor agreed to go. Mr. S.'s carriage was at the door, but the Mayor declining it, took Mr. S.'s arm, and they walked over to the Astor House, where the Mayor was introduced to the Governor. Gov. King sat down to a talk with him and they entered into conversation. Commissioner James G. Bowen was in the room when Mayor Wood entered, but he hurriedly left—without speaking to any one, leaving no one in the room with the Governor and Mayor, but James G. King, Jr., the Governor's nephew.

When Commissioner Draper met the Governor, a few minutes after the Mayor left, the Governor informed him of the interview, saying that their conversation had been guarded. Relative to the affairs of the City the Mayor had expressed his views at length, defending the position he had taken, remarking that he was a law-abiding and order-loving citizen. The Governor signified his disapproval of the Mayor's course, but was glad that he had an appreciation for law and order, and said he should hold him responsible for it. He told him, substantially, that he was pleased with the pacific measures adopted by Gen. Sandford and the Metropolitan Police Commissioners, as well as with the course of Mr. Conover. The Mayor said also that Mr. Conover had failed to comply with the regulations of the ordinance of 1849, requiring him to give two sureties of $10,000 each, to be filed in the Comptroller's Office, and to receive the Mayor's approval. The Governor confessed that he had not been so informed, and with mutual expressions of personal good feeling, they separated.

General Nye says that the Commissioners and Mr. D. D. Field met the Governor on his arrival at the Astor House, where they had a supper provided, at which the Governor sat down with them. Previous to the supper, Commissioners Draper and Nye retired into a private room with the Governor, and gave him a detailed account of all that had been done in relation to the Street Commissioner's office, and the disturbances which had taken place. The Governor expressed his entire approval of their course—there was nothing of an unpleasant nature between them. The General added that the statement of the Herald was wholly false.

THAT BOGUS AND "STORMY CONFERENCE."

The Herald published what purported to be the "stormy proceedings" of a conference of Commissioners Draper and Nye with Gov. King, on the night of his arrival in the City. The Governor is represented to have been very wroth at his summons to come on from Boston, disapproving entirely of the course of the Metropolitan Police Commissioners in the late troubles, and of Mr. Conover's endeavors to gain possession of the Street Commissioner's Office. Mr. Draper says that the report, like every other in that paper, on the same subject, is altogether untrue and imagined to order by the "little reporter." On the other hand, says President Draper, there was no "stormy conference;" we laid the matter before the Governor, and when he had heard the whole, he expressed unqualified approval of all that had been done,—both by the Police Commissioners and by Mr. Conover.

It is a little curious who could have informed the Herald of the "stormy conference." Our reporter and one other (who certainly was not from the Herald) were in the room with the Governor until President Draper, Commissioner Nye and His Excellency retired to a private room, and without any witnesses conferred. As neither one of the party of three would be likely to report the matter to the Herald, the source of our neighbor's information is a profound marvel to the town. To our reporter at midnight of Wednesday, (just before the conference,) and again next morning, (several hours after it,) the Governor expressed his satisfaction with the proceedings of the Commissioners of Police.

ALDERMAN WILSON PLACES HIMSELF IN CUSTODY.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday morning, Alderman Wilson, accompanied by his counsel, entered the Court. The counsel, addressing the Recorder, said that the Alderman, having heard that a warrant had been issued against him, on a charge of riot, had, like a good citizen, come to deliver himself into custody without waiting for the execution of the warrant. He was ready to give bail to any amount the Recorder might require.

The Recorder immediately ordered him to find bail in the sum of $5,000. Charles Devlin, the Mayor's appointee for Street Commissioner, was on hand and gave the required securities.

DID MR. CONOVER SUBMIT HIS SURETIES TO THE MAYOR?

The Mayor, in his interview with Governor King, made this strong point against Mr. Conover:—that the latter had failed to submit to him his sureties as required by the law. One of our reporters called upon Mr. Conover, yesterday, and received from him the following statement of the attempts made by himself to submit his sureties to the Mayor, and how it had happened that the sureties were not submitted.

On Saturday last Mr. Conover, having obtained the bonds and sureties, with the signatures to them as required by the statute, preliminary to entering upon the duties of the office of Street Commissioner, to which he had been newly appointed, he proceeded to let the Mayor's office to present the sureties in due form to the Mayor. This was about 11 A. M. He entered the outer office and sent in a message to the Mayor, announcing his desire to see him. Word was returned that the Mayor was very much engaged, and that if Conover would call an hour when he sent in a second message, evincing that he had very important official papers which he wished to lay before the Mayor. An hour elapsed, Conover went back to the second message, declaring that the Mayor could not put him off. Conover now replied that [illegible] Mayor's private office. Upon the receipt of this information Mr. Conover thought it unnecessary to [illegible] any longer, and immediately proceeded to [illegible] department. On his way through the narrow hall leading from that main office to the outer entrance he met Mr. Devlin, the present incumbent, coming in at this door, but Mr. Matsell, Chief of the Police, who was standing by the door, commanded some policemen in attendance not to let a living soul inside. He afterwards discovered, however, that parties were allowed to pass freely to and from the Mayor through this door. All efforts to get admitted being unavailing, he [illegible] same.

At 3 P. M., Mr. Conover called again at the Mayor's office and asked Mr. Ming, who was present writing, if he was the Mayor's clerk, to which Mr. Ming gave an affirmative response. Mr. Conover said that he wished to see the Mayor, to hand some official papers with him. Mr. Ming replied that it would answer every purpose to leave the papers in his care. He then showed Mr. Ming his commission from Governor King, appointing him Street Commissioner, with the seal of State attached thereto, and his bonds and the names of the sureties. Mr. Matsell, Chief of Police, seeing Mr. Ming looking at the papers, told him he should not receive any papers from Mr. Conover, nor look at any papers of his—it was dangerous business. Mr. Ming handed the papers back, and thereupon Mr. Conover went [illegible] with the Corporation Counsel.

THE POSITION OF MR. CONOVER.

Mr. Conover, on the other hand, asserts that Section 19 of the Charter of 1857, is to be interpreted as referring to the present of the Mayor, who shall be elected after the [illegible] of the present Municipal Court. Magistrate shall have [illegible] the Charter directs that the Mayor, &c., pursuant to the provisions of this Act, shall be elected at the first election of Charter officers to be held after the passage [illegible] such election shall take place on the first Tuesday of December, 1857, six months hence. By the Statute passed Feb. 3, 1849, relative to the power of the Governor to fill vacancies "where no provision is now made by law for filling the same," it is held that Mr. Conover, the appointee of the Governor, is entitled to take possession of the office. There is no provision in the Charter for filling vacancies in the office of Street Commissioner, and this is a significant fact taken in connection with the provisions of the law of 1849, both parties claiming their appointment under the new Charter.

Attorney-General Cushing had given his consent (which was requisite in the premises) for a quo warranto to issue commanding Mr. Develin to appear and show by what authority he is exercising the functions appertaining to the Office of Street Commissioner. The papers were yesterday being prepared by Mr. Conover's counsel, for this exceedingly important proceeding in law.

Mr. Develing had been expecting to have the papers served upon him all day, but that they had not arrived. He said that he had heard on good authority that they were all drawn up and ready the night before, and it was his opinion that the only object of Mr. Conover in procuring them to be issued was to intimidate him.

The alleged error of Mr. Conover was his omission to file his bond, in the sum of $10,000, with sureties approved by the Mayor in accordance with the following provision of the Ordinance of 1849:

That part of the ordinance which prescribes the steps to be taken by the Street Commissioner before entering upon the duties of his office, is found at section one hundred and fifty-seven of Chapter I of Article II of Title IV of Part II of the Act, and is as follows:

SEC. 157. The Street Commissioner, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall execute a bond to the Corporation, with at least two sureties, to be approved by the Mayor, and filed in the office of the Comptroller in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office.

SUPREME COURT—JUNE 19.
Before Judge Peabody.

Yesterday Messrs. Field & Sluyter, Attorneys for Daniel D. Conover, recently appointed Street Commissioner to fill vacancy occasioned by the death of Joseph S. Taylor, presented the following petition of Mr. Conover to Judge Peabody:

To Hon. Charles A. Peabody, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New-York:

The petition of Daniel D. Conover, of said City, respectfully shows that Joseph S. Taylor was elected to the office of Street Commissioner of the City of New-York in November, 1855, and entered upon the duties of said office in January thereafter, and continued therein until June 9, 1857, when he died; that your petitioner was, on the 19th day of June, 1857, duly appointed and commissioned by the Governor of the State of New-York to fill the vacancy in that office, occasioned by the decease of the said Joseph S. Taylor, the late Street Commissioner; that your petitioner has accepted the said appointment, and has duly taken and filed his oath of office, has duly executed with sufficient sureties, and filed the necessary official bond, and has done, as he is advised and believes, everything necessary to be done by him to qualify himself for exercising the duties of said office; that appertaining to the said office is a large quantity of books and papers, maps and documents of various descriptions; that such books, papers, maps and documents have come into the hands of one Charles Develin, and are in his possession.

That your petitioner has demanded the same from him, but that he withholds the same and refuses to deliver them to your petitioner, claiming himself to be the Street Commissioner, under an alleged appointment to that office by the Mayor and Aldermen of said City.

Your petitioner therefore prays that the said Devlin may be ordered to show cause before you, on the 23d inst., at noon, at the Chambers of the Justices of this Court, at the City Hall, in the City of New York, why he should not be compelled to deliver the said books, papers, maps and documents to your petitioner.

And your petitioner will ever pray, &c.

D. D. CONOVER.

City and County of New-York, ss.—Daniel D. Conover, the above petitioner, being sworn, saith that he has read the foregoing petition by him subscribed, and that the same is true, to his own knowledge.

D. D. CONOVER.

JAMES T. FARR, Commissioner of Deeds.

On the above petition, Judge Peabody made the annexed order:

SUPREME COURT.

On the foregoing petition, let Charles Devlin, therein named, show cause before me, on the 23d inst., at 12 o'clock M., at the Chambers of the Justices of this Court, in the City Hall of the City of New-York, why he should not be compelled forthwith to deliver to the petitioner the books, papers, maps and documents belonging or appertaining to the office of Street Commissioner of the City of New-York.

Dated June 19, 1857. C. A. PEABODY.

HOW GOVERNOR KING REGARDS MR. CONOVER'S COURSE.

Mr. Conover states very emphatically that Governor King expressed hearty approval of his (Mr. Conover's) course relative to the Street Commissionership. He called upon the Governor, at the Astor House. The Governor grasped both of his hands heartily, as he entered, telling him he liked the way he had acted. In the course of the interview Governor King alluded to what had been said by the Mayor relative to his failure to submit his sureties to the Mayor for approval. Mr. Conover explained how he attempted to submit the papers in question. Ex-Judge King, the brother of the Governor, who was present, at once stated that the sureties had been submitted to the extent of the requirements of the law. The Governor was pleased to hear the explanation, and concurred with his brother, the Ex-Judge, in the opinion he expressed upon the matter.

A FLUSTERY LOOK.

The Recorder is said to have taken unbecoming remarks made by Judge Daly, relative to his official career and character, in the arguments, on Wednesday, about the warrants issued upon Mayor Wood. The Ex-Judge states that he heard yesterday that the Recorder had intimated an intention to horsewhip him and pull his (the Ex Judge's) nose. The Judge says that he sent word to the Recorder that he was ready to meet him at any time and place, and offered any modest opportunity for the application of a horsewhip, or for a nose-twisting. The Recorder had not got out his rejoinder.

WHO IS STREET COMMISSIONER?

After all the excitement, the broken heads and self-degradation of most of the past few days, the controversy concerning the Street Commissioner's office is at last reduced to the form of a plain, dispassionate and sensible issue. The questions which have been contested, and proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto are about to be taken, which will bring the matter to a speedy decision before a judicial tribunal. If, after an examination, upon a writ duly issued, requiring Mr. Develin, the present incumbent, to show by what authority he exercises the functions of Street Commissioner, it should be decided that Mr. Conover is entitled to the office, there will be nothing left the opposing party but to acquiesce in the judgment rendered. So the proceedings which are being taken by Mr. Conover, as detailed below, are the kind appropriate to the whole matter at present in any turn. The important step that has been taken in regard to the succession to the office vacated by the decease of Mr. Taylor will be the issuing of this quo warranto, as by far the most important measure which has yet been adopted in that other matter, intimately connected with that under consideration, which has recently exercised the public mind—Mayor Wood's resistance to the service of judicial process,—was the order granted by Judge Hoffman, in the Superior Court, day before yesterday, commanding the Mayor to appear and show cause why he should not be committed as for a contempt. These two proceedings in Court, and the decision of the Court of Appeals, will probably settle finally the matters which have caused all the recent excitement. Meantime the parties who have been the most interested in the embroilment in relation to the Street Commissioner's office stand, two of them (Messrs. Devlin and Turner) on the Mayor's side of the bone of contention, and one (Mr. Conover) supported by those who interpret the law as Governor King does.

POSITION OF MR. DEPUTY TURNER.

Mr. Deputy Turner at the Street Commissioner's office, "who has retired from the position which he at first took, that he was entitled to succeed Mr. Taylor, and that no person could be appointed either by the Governor or by the Mayor to fill the office during the remainder of the late incumbent's unexpired term. He seems to have sacrificed his own convictions to his friendship for the Mayor, and to a desire to prevent the further complication of affairs. Probably he to-day believes he is entitled to the office until Jan. 1, 1859. The ground on which he assumed the control of the Street Commissioner's Department, immediately upon the decease of Mr. Taylor, was undoubtedly correct: the only point on which he disagreed with Mayor Wood was concerning the period that he was entitled to retain it. The following is that portion of the act passed by the Common Council, approved by the Mayor May 20, 1849, entitled "An Ordinance organizing the Departments of the Municipal Government of the City of New-York and prescribing their powers and duties," upon which Deputy Turner claimed to be the head of the Street Commissioner's Office on Mr. Taylor's death, ipso facto, without any action on the part of the appointing power; it occurs at Part II., Title iv., art. ii.:

Chap. II., sec. 185. In case of a vacancy in the office of the Street Commissioner, the Deputy shall act as Street Commissioner until the vacancy shall be supplied by a new appointment, and until the person appointed shall be duly qualified.

"Under this section," said Mr. Turner, "I could not surrender the office to Mr. Conover, even if he was rightly appointed, until he had given his bonds to the Mayor and been duly qualified. I succeeded Mr. Taylor at his decease, and when Mr. Develin had been appointed and his sureties approved by the Mayor, I immediately acquiesced." The new Commissioner has no power to appoint a new Deputy; the Deputy appointed by the old Commissioner on his accession was appointed for the whole term, and cannot be removed except for probable cause.

Upon Section 51 of the Charter of 1857 Mr. Turner founds his claim to the office for the remainder of Mr. Taylor's term:

"Sec. 51. The Mayor, Aldermen and Councilmen, provided for in this act, shall be elected at the first election for Charter officers, to be held after the passage hereof, which election shall take place on the first Tuesday of December, 1857; all persons who shall have been elected under former laws regulating or affecting the election of Charter officers, and shall be in office at the time of the passage of this act, shall continue in office until the officers elected under this act shall take office, and no longer, except that the offices of Commissioner of Repairs and Supplies, and of Commissioner of Streets and Lamps, are hereby abolished, and except that the persons now filling the several offices of Comptroller, Counsel to the Corporation, Street Commissioner, and City Inspector, and the officers of the Croton Aqueduct Department, shall continue in office until the expiration of their several terms, and shall not be removed from office during such continuance, except for the cause and in the manner provided for in sections Nos. 39 and 40 of this act, and all other Charter offices and all School officers, and each Governor of the Almshouse, whose term of office may expire with the present municipal year, shall be also elected on the day before provided for this section."

Mr. Turner held that, under the above provision, the Street Commissioner and other officers shall continue in office (dead or alive) until the expiration of their present terms; he, as the representative of the late incumbent, would remain Street Commissioner until January 1, 1859. But Mr. Turner assured our Reporter yesterday that he has no intention of pressing his view of the matter, and is quite willing to retain his present position of Deputy Commissioner.

THE POSITION OF MR. DEVELIN.

We gave an exposition of the grounds on which Mr. Develin claims that his appointment was valid on Thursday. Mayor Wood claims the right to fill the vacancy, because section 19 of the new charter provides that the Mayor, by and with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen, shall appoint all the municipal heads of Departments other than the Comptroller and Counsel to the Corporation, who, with the Mayor, are by that instrument to be elective officers. Mayor Wood, claiming to act in accordance with the provisions of the new charter, under protest, holds that this section relates back to the present Mayor in the case of the vacancy in this office, and gives him the appointing power.

THE (NEW) POLICE COMMISSIONERS

At the office in White-street only a few policemen were present, yesterday, and there was no crowd in front of the building, owing, probably, as much to the unpropitious weather as to anything else.

About 10 o'clock the Commissioners entered the building, and, after a brief consultation with the Deputy-Superintendent, retired, with their Clerk, to their own room, where they organized for business and remained in session for some time.

After the usual formal business, and the transaction of private matters relating to the Commission, the following-named persons were appointed and sworn in as members of the Metropoliten Police Department:

J. H. Folly, Jas. Tennant, Andrew Houston, J. D. Berkwell, John N. Merrill, Wm. Clinton, (for Nineteenth Ward,) Alexander James, (Nineteenth Ward.)

Below stairs, in the Deputy's office, the Ward returns were received as usual. There were not many items of interest on them.

Sergeant Cameron reported that he visited the Seventeenth Ward Station-House at 7½ o'clock Monday evening, but was refused the right to promulgate his orders to the men by Capt. Letts. He then attempted to speak to the men as they came out, but they would not hear him; for as soon as they reached the street, they set up cheering for Fernando Wood.

He then proceeded to the Seventeenth Precinct Station-House, corner of Third-street and Bowery, where at 9½ o'clock officers Hamble J. Fox, Christopher Graham and William Meadows, reported themselves to him. He adds that in all probability some three or four more will come first.

Captain Sanders reported as follows:

"The addition of eight men to my patrol force last night enabled me to enter upon a more systematic and efficient course of duty in the District than formerly. All is quiet here for me, and I hope to be able to preserve the peace and enforce order."

Capt. Turnbull makes the arrest of Alderman Wilson, by Policeman Monk, on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Thomas Belcher.

On the other Ward returns reports for drunkenness, disorderly conduct, &c., are noted.

AT THE FIFTH WARD STATION.

Sergeant Hix, of the Seventeenth Precinct, called last evening at the Fifth Ward Station-House, and destructive read an order from the new Commissioner, Capt. Bowling, instructing him, during, &c. Sergt. Hix then repaired to the sidewalk, and summoned all who favored the new law to report themselves at No. 39 White-street this morning. All the force declared for the old Board and Sergeant Hix retired.

THE WOUNDED.

By order of the Commissioners, Deputy Carpenter will [illegible] issue an order to the various Captains, desiring them to report daily for the future the names and condition of any under their command who may be injured while in the discharge of their duty.

The physician reported yesterday that all the wounded except Clothal were doing well, and would probably recover. Mr. Lottus is likewise reported as improving.

In relation to Mr. Crotut, the following additional facts have been learned:

Yesterday he seemed to be a little easier. He had slept well the night previous, though on the whole, no great alleviation had taken place since the preceding day. His family have been greatly annoyed with visitors, and Mr. C. has been disturbed by persons who pretend to call by authority. As early as 5 o'clock yesterday morning the family were aroused at the loud rapping on the door by the roundsman of the 6th Police, who wanted to know if Mr. C. was yet alive. His physician, Dr. Bigelow, has taken charge of the case, at the request of Coroner Perry. Mr. Jones, said our informant, called and told the family that unless they had him as physician Mr. C. would lose his pay, as he could only be paid by the Doctor's authority. In consequence of these annoyances Captain Hearit has detailed an officer at the house, with orders to keep out both friend and foe, as it is absolutely important the sick man should be kept quiet. Mr. Crotut recognizes a man named Andrew Mulligan as the one who assaulted him.

The following amounts have been received at the Times Office, for the aid of the wounded policemen:

ARREST OF COMMISSIONER CHOLWELL ON A CHARGE OF THREATENING MAYOR WOOD'S LIFE.

On Thursday an Irish tailor, named Patrick Garvin, made an affidavit before City Judge Russell, that he had heard Jacob Cholwell, one of the Metropolitan Police Commissioners, threaten to take the life of Mayor Wood, and prayed that he (Cholwell) might be forthwith arrested to prevent him carrying out his threat. A warrant was at once granted, and placed in the hands of one of the Deputy Sheriffs, who yesterday arrested Mr. Cholwell, and brought him before Justice Connolly. The affidavit of Garvin, which reads as follows, was then read to the accused:

State of New-York, City and County of New-York, ss.—Patrick Garvin, of the Eighth Ward of the City and County of New-York, doing business as a clothier at No. 389 Hudson-street, being duly sworn, deposes and says: That on the 17th day of June, 1857, at the New World House, in Hudson-street, in the said City and County of New-York, he heard Jacob Cholwell, who claims to be one of the Metropolitan Police Commissioners, say and threaten he would plunge or run a dirk-knife into the heart of Fernando Wood; and at the time of said threat, said Cholwell opened the breast of his coat and showed the handle of said knife to deponent; that said Cholwell, at such time, said he was armed to the teeth with pistols; that he was very violent against and abusive of said Fernando Wood. Deponent believes, from said Cholwell's manner, action and threats, that if he is not arrested and held in bonds to keep the peace towards the said Wood, that he will put his said threats in execution, by stabbing or running a knife into the said Wood.

P. GARVIN.

Sworn before me this 18th day of June, 1857.

A. D. RUSSELL, City Judge.

Mr. Cholwell deigned no reply to the charge, merely saying he would enter into recognizances, and that his bondsman was present.

Justice Connolly said laughingly, Very well, Sir, that's all right. I shall bind you to keep the peace to the people of New-York in general, and Fernando Wood, in particular, for the space of twelve months, in the sum of $5,000. Mr. Johnson, (addressing the Clerk,) you will please fill out the necessary papers."

Thereupon Mr. Louis S. Fellowes, of No. 103 Second-avenue, stepped forward as security, and made oath to being owner, "over all his debts and liabilities," of the sum of $5,000.

The papers were then signed by the respective parties, and Mr. Cholwell and Mr. Fellowes retired.

These proceedings were had very quietly, and only a few persons were present.

IS MAYOR WOOD IN THE CUSTODY OF THE SHERIFF?

It is a great mystery to many whether Mayor Wood is, at the present time, in the custody of the Sheriff or not. In the numerous legal processes served by the Mayor's counsel, and still waiting to be adjudicated, the Mayor certainly is spoken of as restrained of his liberty, by James G. Willet, Sheriff for the City and County of New-York. On the other hand, the Mayor has repeatedly declared that he is not in the custody of the Sheriff, but enjoys the fullest and most complete liberty. One of our reporters called yesterday upon the Mayor, (the "fountain-head of information," at which, on Thursday, he advised our reporters always to apply for correct facts concerning himself,) and asked respectfully his explanation. Our reporter referred to the petition of the Mayor's counsel for the habeas corpus, still pending, wherein it is stated that he is "restrained of his liberty," and wished to know how the same was to be reconciled with his personal statements to the contrary.

"O," said the Mayor, "the petition spoken of is simply drawn up in the usual form—a mere legal fiction—nothing more."

"But perhaps," ventured our reporter, hoping his remark might be deemed facetious, "the whole thing is a fiction."

"Not entirely so," responded the Mayor. "But one thing is very certain, I am not in the custody of the Sheriff at the present time, neither have I been heretofore. I have gone home alone in my carriage every night, and returned to my office alone in the morning. I have gone when I pleased and where I pleased, and shall continue to go when and where I please."

Then our reporter modestly withdrew.

It was but a step to the Sheriff's office.

REPORTER—(to the Sheriff)—"The Mayor, I suppose, remains in your custody still?"

SHERIFF—"Yes, he is still in my custody, and will remain so till the present habeas corpus is disposed of."

The able conversation that ensued between the Sheriff and our reporter elicited no facts of interest additional to those already made public. Readers must solve for themselves, from what appears above, the really mysterious question, "Is Mayor Wood in the custody of the Sheriff?"

The Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen met, yesterday, at 10 o'clock, according to adjournment, but did not transact any business. They adjourned till 3 P. M.

At the 3½ o'clock session of the Board of Aldermen, Alderman Monsman in the Chair,

Alderman Tucker moved a further adjournment to Monday. He afterwards withdrew the motion, in order to allow the reception of a report.

The report of a Committee on Finance was then brought up, authorizing D. T. Valentine, Esq., Clerk of the Common Council, to prepare a map of the original grants of land on this island, as a valuable historical addition to the City archives, and allowing him a clerk for that purpose, at $3 per day.

The Report was unanimously concurred in.

The Board then adjourned to Monday at 5 o'clock

It is now not considered probable that either Bacon or the Express Companies will get the California Overland Mail Contract. N. Y. T.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, June 19.

A telegraphic dispatch has been received from Henry D. Forman, accepting one of the vacant Utah Judgeships. He is an ex-member of Congress from Ohio. The other judgeship has been offered to Mr. Edkins, of Indiana, who will probably accept. It is uncertain whether Judge Sutton, who is now here, will return to the Territory. A well founded report assigns the marshalship of Utah to Thomas H. Dunn, of Mississippi. Col. Cumming will again be tendered the Governorship, and his acceptance is considered certain.

The California Overland Mail question, after undergoing thorough consideration in the Cabinet, has been referred to the Postmaster-General, who is not yet prepared to pronounce a decision. The impression prevails, however, that the Southern route will be selected, commencing at Memphis, and continuing by way of Fort Smith, Donna Anna, and Fort Yuma. The object is to have the route through country susceptible of easy settlement, and which will not be interrupted by heavy snow. Some of the bidders desire to be heard before the Postmaster-General before he shall finally dispose of the question.

Information has been received to the effect that the Spanish Government has prolonged to the 31st of December the exemption previously accorded to all vessels arriving in Spain from foreign ports with flour, grain, beans, and other mealy substances; but the exemption from all duty can only be enjoyed when the whole cargo consists of these substances. Several instances have occurred of vessels being made to pay full duties in consequence of their having on board a few staves or other trifles.

From a document recently received at the State Department, relative to the observations of the British squadron in the West Indies, it appears the fact has been ascertained, beyond a doubt, that the "Salmegina Bank" extends further to the eastward that it is laid down in the chart by nearly two miles.

Costa Rica's Claims to the Transit not to be Admitted—Policy of Mr. Buchanan's Administration relative to Central American Affairs Established.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, June 18, 1857.

The President has taken a decided stand in regard to the interference of Costa Rica with the Nicaraguan Transit, and has declared that her claims to the Transit, whether founded upon conquest or a disputed boundary, shall not be admitted. This is a bold determination, and implies an entirely new policy on the part of the Government—to wit: the assumption of a direct control over the Central American States and their affairs.

It is a declaration of the very policy which, it had been supposed, Mr. Buchanan would have most especially avoided.

The Crampton-Webster Treaty negotiated under Mr. Fillmore's administration, and the principle of which was approved by Mr. Webster's successor, Mr. Everett, proposed to settle the boundary dispute between Costa Rica and Nicaragua on terms favorable to the former State, and Nicaragua rejected them for that reason. The protests of the Nicaraguan Minister against the acknowledgment of the claims of Costa Rica, were always very earnest. That treaty project was generally censured by the Democratic opposition, and upon the ground that it interfered with the local affairs and disputes of the Central American States.

The President takes the ground of Mr. Marcoleta against Costa Rica, but he differs from the position of the Democratic Party upon the question of intervention. He decides in favor of taking a part in the contest between the two States, but decides to take part with Nicaragua, and against Costa Rica in this instance. Other cases may arise, in which the President, for the time being, if this principle be admitted and established, may decide upon other questions between these two parties.

The same question, when presented to another President, may be differently decided.

Mr. Buchanan's decision in this case involves another point of importance. The late Administration looked quietly on, when the Nicaraguan transit was interrupted in various ways, and refused to take any steps to restore it. Mr. Buchanan, on the contrary, declares that Costa Rica shall not block it up, and, of course, this involves a decision that it shall not be again suspended by another power, or by any other war.

Still, again, another important point is established by Mr. Buchanan's declaration, to wit: a general surveillance over the transit, independently of the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, and of any interest of any other power in the Isthmus. Thus, if England should happen to take a different view, at any time, of this or any other matter of controversy relative to the transit between Costa Rica and Nicaragua, and should take part with Costa Rica in the question, there will arise, necessarily, a quarrel between Great Britain and the United States.

The declaration which I have alluded to is vastly more important, because more direct and practical, than anything that can be found in Mr. Buchanan's Inaugural. It is tantamount to a declaration of an exclusive protectorate, or rather dictatorship, over the Central American States.

One effect of the decision is to involve the United States in the war of Gen. Walker, who claims to be the legal and legitimate Executive of Nicaragua. It promises him the potent aid of the United States as against Costa Rica. Y. Y. Z.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE—AN ELECTION FOR STATE OFFICERS IN AUGUST, ETC.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, June 19.

The correspondent of the Democrat, writing from Quindaro on the 16th inst., says that the Legislature adjourned on the 13th. Acts providing for taking of the census; appointing an election on the first Monday in August for State officers and Representatives to Congress, and locating the seat of Government at Topeka, were passed, as also a joint resolution under the Topeka Constitution census act, providing for the appointment of five Marshals, whose deputies shall take a census immediately, and make an apportionment of the State which shall give a Senate of not more than 20 members, and a House of 60.

Some of the Territorial County Judges have pronounced parts of the Census law inoperative.

It is reported that Gov. Walker has been informed that the Constitution will not be submitted to the people.

TOPEKA, Sunday, June 14.

The State Legislature adjourned at midnight last night, after having completed sufficient legislation to maintain the Free-State organization. No steps were taken to break up their sitting.

The bogus election takes place to-morrow. The County Judges in several Counties have declared certain parts of the census act inoperative. The Pro-

Slavery men [illegible] Constitution will not be submitted to the people.

Hon. M. H. Grinnell, Jr. of Albany, has written W. Messenger, President of the Atlantic Mail Company of the Isthmus, that [illegible] I have opposed with all my powers the policy of the present postmaster-General, and have used all the influence in my power to defeat [illegible] which were calculated, in my judgment, to [illegible] the interests of the country. [illegible] I am glad to say that the Postmaster-General has changed the measures which could not fail to [illegible] and hereafter the Government of the country will be administered in accordance with the principles of free labor.

Upon the subject of the Isthmus, Mr. [illegible] had failed to open any communication with the Government of New-Granada, but he is now ready, as the people of Massachusetts [illegible] to enter into negotiations with the American people for the construction of a road across the Isthmus, which will be [illegible] and directed wholly by the Government of the United States.

After listening to remarks from [illegible] Mr. Grinnell [illegible] a series of resolutions [illegible] of those who have hitherto come to the [illegible] and [illegible] the Government to [illegible] the Isthmus.

THE FRESHET AT ELMIRA.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Friday, June 19—3 P. M.

The storm of the last two days has been unusually severe. The streams are very much swollen, and the houses on the banks are very much injured. A freight train was literally blown off the track of the road at this place and Corning, yesterday, by a gust of wind and rain. No person was injured. The travel by the Erie Railroad is obstructed by the washing away of the banks. The weather is now clear, and the streams are subsiding. The railroad will be in working by to-morrow.

Steam Boiler Explosion at Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Friday, June 19.

The steam boiler connected with the [illegible] establishment of A. C. Van Blarcom, carpenter and builder, exploded at 6¾ o'clock this morning, entirely demolishing the building and scattering the fragments in every direction. Some of the pieces were thrown to the distance of a whole square from the scene. Considerable damage was done to portions of the buildings in the neighborhood by the falling roof and timbers. No lives were lost, although several persons were injured. The cause of the explosion was purely accidental.

Execution of the Murderer Jackson.

CARSON, Friday, June 19.

JACKSON, convicted of the murder of Rufus Morris in Lake County, last Fall, was executed this morning three miles from the City. He confessed to the murder some days since. It is estimated that 25,000 persons attended the execution, and the crowd pressing on the platform it was broken, but fortunately no one was injured. The military were out in force, and the execution passed off quietly.

Burning of the Old Dominion Steam Flour Mills.

RICHMOND, Va., Friday, June 19.

The Old Dominion Steam Flour Mills, in this place, owned by S. B. Paul, Esq., were entirely destroyed by fire last night. Loss $50,000, which is partially insured. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

Public Dinner to Hon. Wm. B. Reed.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 19.

Hon. Wm. B. Reed has accepted an invitation from our most prominent merchants, professional and citizens, to a public dinner at the Assembly Rooms on Monday evening next, previous to his departure on his mission to China.

The Weather in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Friday, June 19.

The weather here continues unusually cold for the season, and vegetation is four weeks later than for some years past. The highest point this afternoon 55°.

The wires from this City to New-York continue in fine order, and several dispatches were received today from our office (No. 21 Wall-street) in New-York, in from 15 to 20 minutes.

Election of a Mayor at Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Friday, June 19.

The fifth trial to elect a Mayor has resulted in the choice of Wm. M. Bowen, the Anti-Know-Nothing candidate, by 303 majority over all. Every Ward gives him a majority.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A Great Book for the Country and Coach.
PUBLISHED THIS MORNING:
THE CHIMNEY CORNER,
OF HUMOR, WIT AND ANECDOTE.
With 40 Original Illustrations, from Designs by that Eminent Humorist, JOHN McLENAN.
Elegantly printed on tinted paper.

In one elegant 12mo volume, neatly bound in muslin, gilt back, price $1 25.

Here is a cyclopædia of witty humor, absolutely droll yarns, Western extravaganzas, funny tall stories. A Chit-Chat for the million!—of the choice gems of custom-fresh, racy and genial, whether colored by the sentimentalist or the humorist, a rattling, random miscellany of proverbs, jests, sharp sayings, stories, curious epitaphs, and comic epigrams. Every line tells either joyously, pathetically, satirically or wittily; side splitting laughter, alternating with sympathetic grief, as the Humorist or Moralist presides at the overflowing table. In this Storehouse of Humor, Wit and Anecdote will be found the most re-churchs spirits that have sparkled into the mind of genius in every degree-from of Rabelais. Every page will be read with delicious avidity by all who possess its pages.

From the Syracuse Standard.

Here is an array of wit, humor, anecdote, fun, facts, and fancies, such as we, for our private reading, together have within the two kids of a volume. It is a perfect avalanche of good things. The cockney mark is not somewhere. If not more. If the reader is going a journey, or about spending a few days," out of town," let him call and get a copy.

From the Baltimore Clipper.

"CHIP CHAT OF HUMOR, WIT AND ANECDOTE."—This is simply a collection of hot shots, every paragraph, anecdote, &c., a witty, interesting one, the "Chat" a pleasant random strung," none the less valuable on that account. Lovers of fun will buy this book, and so should every person of every class, as a preventive of the "blues" or hypochondria.

From the Springfield Republican.

The compilation is very comprehensive, and, so far as we have examined it, is drawn from the best sources. We propose to show our appreciation of its contents by placing selections from them among our "Pleasant paragraphs."

Published and for sale by STRINGER & TOWNSEND, No. 222 Broadway, New-York, and for sale by all booksellers and newspaper agents everywhere.

JUST PUBLISHED,
NOTHING TO WEAR,
AN EPISODE OF CITY LIFE.
Miss Flora M'Flimsey, of Madison-square,
Has made three separate journeys to Paris,
And her father assures me, each time she was there,
That she and her friend Mrs. Harris,
(Not the lady whose name is so famous in history,
But that plain Mrs. H. without robe, title or mystery,)
Spent six consecutive weeks without stopping,
In one continuous round of shopping;
Shopping alone, and shopping together,
At all hours of the day, and in all sorts of weather;
For all manner of things that a woman can put
On the crown of her head or the sole of her foot,
Or wrap round her shoulders, or fit round her waist,
Or that can be sewed on, or pinned on, or laced,
Or tied on with a string, or stitched on with a bow,
In front or behind, above or below;
For bonnets, mantillas capes, collars and shawls;
Dresses for breakfasts, and dresses, and balls;
Dresses to sit in, and stand in, and walk in;
Dresses to dance in, and ride in, and talk in;
Dresses in which to do nothing at all;
Dresses for Winter, Spring, Summer and Fall;
All of them different in color and pattern,
silk, muslin, and lace, crape, velvet, and satin,
Brocade, and broadcloth, and other material,
Quite an expensive and much more ethereal;
In short, for all things that could ever be thought of,
Or milliner, maker, or tradesman to be bought of,
From ten thousand francs robes to twenty-sou frills;
In all quarters of Paris, and to every store,
While M'Flimsey in vain stamped, scolded and swore,
They footed the streets, and he footed the bills.
The last trip, their goods shipped by the steamer Arago,
Formed, M'Flimsey declares, the bulk of her cargo,
And yet, the scarce three months have passed since the
This merchandise went, on twelve carts, up Broadway,
This same Miss M'Flimsey, of Madison-square,
The last time we met was in utter despair,
Because she had nothing whatever to wear!
NOTHING TO WEAR! Now, as this is a true ditty,
I do not assert—this, you know, is between us—
That she's in a state of nudity,
Like Powers' Greek slave or the Medici Venus;
But I do mean to say, I have heard her declare,
When, at the same moment, she had on a dress
Which cost five hundred dollars and not a cent less,
And jewelry worth ten times more, I should guess,
That she had not a thing in the wide world to wear!
I should mention just here, that out of Miss Flora's
Two hundred and fifty or sixty dresses,
I had just been selected as he who should throw all
The rest in the shade, by the gracious bestowal
On myself, after twenty or thirty rejections,
Of those fossil remains, which she called "her affections,"
And that rather decayed, but well-known work of art,
Which Miss Flora persisted in styling "her heart."
So we were engaged. Our troth had been plighted,
Not by moonbeam or starbeam, by fountain or grove,
But in a front parlor, most brilliantly lighted,
Beneath the gas-fixtures we whispered our love.
Without any romance, or raptures, or sighs,
Without any tears in Miss Flora's blue eyes,
Or blushes, or transports, or such silly actions,
It was one of the quietest business transactions,
With a very small sprinkling of sentiment, if any.
And a very large diamond, imported by Tiffany.
On her virginal lips while I printed a kiss I
She exclaimed, in a sort of parenthesis,
* * * * * * *
We give the above beginning of that wonderfully clever satire upon the fashions and extravagance of New-York female aristocracy, which appeared lately in Harper's Weekly, entitled, and which proved to be so complete a hit, that over one hundred thousand copies were sold, and the demand is still unabated. A superb edition of this capital poem has just been published, profusely and elegantly embellished, and printed upon tinted paper, with exquisite wood engravings from the original designs by HOPPIN, (the first humorous artist in America.) The book has been produced in the very highest style of art, as regards paper, printing, illustrating, and binding; and the publishers are confident that no taste, however cultivated, but will be satisfied and delighted with this charming little work.

"NOTHING TO WEAR,"

12mo, elegantly bound in cloth, pp. 68. Price 50 cents.

For sale by all booksellers. The book will be sent by mail, postage paid, to any part of the United States, on receipt of the price, in stamps, 50 cents.

OFFICE OF THE EAGLE FIRE COMPANY,
NEW-YORK, June 15, 1857.

AT A MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS, this day, the following preamble and resolutions were passed:

Whereas, The Board of Directors has received the sad int

Mayor Wood's Apologists.

The Daily News of yesterday, in commenting upon the affair within the Municipal Police-made, on Tuesday last, upon the posse comitatus assembled by Coroner Perry to enforce the law, remarks:

"Their entrance was resisted, of course, by cavem or two thieves the City, and these fool-hardy men, or men of a fool-hardy and unrecognized official, were discomfited, and they retired, many of them, with sore heads, some with legs broken once."

The "fool hardy official" referred to by the News, was not the individual that paper appears to suppose; but a Coroner of the City, who had already been at the Mayor's Office for the purpose of arresting him, and who had been refused admittance. The Coroner, most unexpectedly to himself, had been called upon to act, because the original order, of the Superior Court, to arrest, had included the Sheriff as well as the Mayor, in which case the statutes expressly provide that the Coroner shall be summoned to fulfill the Sheriff's duty. Coroner Perry can be supposed to have had no personal feeling in the matter, nor do we believe that he had any. It was only after having exhausted every effort to obtain admission to the presence of Mr. Wood, that he reluctantly returned to the Recorder's Office, and there did his duty by making an affidavit of the facts of the case, the principal one of which were as follows:

"That he went with the said warrant to the City Hall in the said City for the purpose of arresting the defendant FERNANDO WOOD thereon, and went to the outer door of the said office of the Mayor, the said FERNANDO WOOD, in the said City Hall, and was at first denied admittance; but on being informed that he was such Coroner, and had business with the Mayor, was admitted within the said office up to the railing within the same, where he was met by some twenty or more of the Municipal Policemen, who denied him admission to the inner room, where, it was said, and where deponent believes, and has no doubt, the said Wood then was; that this deponent declared to them his business, and told them that he was such Coroner, and had such process or warrant of arrest; that there, upon a messenger sent into the inner office and to inform said Wood of deponent's business, that deponent does not know his name, but that he also was a Municipal Policeman; that he returned almost instantly, and then a Mr. ACKERMAN, formerly, and now claiming to be Captain of Police, who was then present, and who, as I believe, came out of the said private office of the said WOOD, came to deponent and TOLD HIM THAT IT WAS THE MAYOR'S ORDERS THAT HE SHOULD BE TURNED OUT OF THE ROOM; that he then immediately seized this deponent, and after a little resistance on his part, led and forced this deponent out of the room, and he was, therefore, wholly unable then to execute the said warrant of arrest, by reason of the resistance then and there given by the said WOOD and the said ACKERMAN to such service by this deponent."

Under the circumstances, Coroner PERRY might have at once called out the military. The law authorizes him to do so. Art. VII., p. 587, sec. 101, part 3 of the Revised Statutes reads as follows:

"When a sheriff, or other public officer authorized to execute any process delivered to him, shall find or have reason to apprehend that resistance will be made to the execution of such process, he shall be authorized to command every male inhabitant of the County or as many as he shall think proper, and with such arms as he shall direct any military Company or Companies in said County, armed and equipped, to assist him in overcoming such resistance, and, if necessary, in seizing, arresting and confining the resisters, their aiders and abettors, to be dealt with according to law."

The Recorder counselled, with a proper spirit of moderation, that the smallest possible force should be employed, and his advice was followed. The Coroner returned to the City Hall with fifty men, and it was against this body of "male inhabitants of the county" that the City Hall was barricaded, and whose "entrance," according to the News, "was resisted by order of the Mayor of the City." It is idle to say that the men called upon to assist the Coroner were members of the new Police. Resistance would even then have been illegal; but admitting that they had no right to arrest the Mayor, what has that to do with the admitted authority, resisted from the outset, of Coroner PERRY? What excuse is afforded by the idle prattle of the News, and the changes it rings upon the words "Albany Police," "Metropolitan Police," "Bogus Commissioners," &c., for the original order of the Mayor to Mr. ACKERMAN that he should turn the Coroner out of his office? Granting, for an instant, that the Metropolitan Police deserved resistance while acting in their official capacity, is, therefore, a posse comitatus, assembled under the law which authorizes public officers to "COMMAND every male inhabitant to assist him in overcoming resistance, in arresting the resisters," to be "of course" (!) resisted, and those who compose it to come off, "by order of the Mayor," with "sore" or "half-broken" heads? We hope that the News will pause before it allows factional feeling to sweep it away into reckless defence of such wretched civil ethics. We prefer hoping that the author of the article from which we have quoted, and of another, in the same paper, entitled "the revolution is at an end," wrote in utter ignorance of all of the facts of the case, to reciprocating the charge of falsehood, which, "to relieve itself from odium and disgrace," it brings against no less than four of the City journals. The enormous guilt of Mr. WOOD is as clear as noon-day. He so well knows it himself that he has used every effort since Wednesday, to retreat from the consequences of his errors by substituting the language of peace and submission to the law, for the bloody threats and determined rebellion of Tuesday and Wednesday last. It is too late. The punishment for his misdeeds has yet to come. It is equally necessary as a warning for the future, and as a just retribution for acts which never would be pardoned in a private citizen, but of which the atrocity, in a Municipal Chief Magistrate, can scarcely be exaggerated.

The Journal of Commerce, in attempting to palliate the misdeeds of the Mayor, founds its editorial comments upon the deliberate misstatements of its reporter. In its columns of Wednesday, after treating upon the fight in front of the City Hall, in which the presence of the Coroner, as well as his previous attempt to arrest the Mayor, and his affidavit, are wholly ignored, it says:

"After the difficulty was over Coroner PERRY called upon the Mayor for the purpose of serving the civil process upon him, (a Coroner being the only officer who can arrest the Mayor and the Sheriff). The Coroner was politely received, fulfilled his mission, and accepted recognizances in the sum of $10,000 for the appearance of the Mayor before Judge HOFFMAN as required by the writ."

The words in italics would, of course, leave the impression that the only interview between the Coroner and the Mayor related to the civil process, and that their meeting took place subsequently to the riot which the latter incited. The truth, as stated above, is widely different. After the difficulty was over the Coroner, as yet without his writ, did not see the Mayor at all, but his arrest finally took place by the hands of Mr. WILKIE, on a warrant in which the Sheriff's name was not included. On Thursday morning the Journal reiterated its misstatement, as follows:

"The Mayor, correcting his mistake of the previous day, submitted to be arrested by an Albany-made Policeman, Capt. SPRAGUE. However loving this may have been to the Chief Magistrate of the Empire City, it was an homage due to law—even to a bad law, and in some of its provisions probably an unconstitutional one. But until so decided by the courts, there is no other way but to conform to its precepts.

We have no doubt in our own minds, that the affair was deliberately planned by the State Police-interest on purpose to tempt the Mayor into a false position. They doubtless knew that if the warrant were served by an officer whom he acknowledged to be entitled to make the arrest, he would yield without hesitation. Such officers were at hand, and might accordingly have been employed for the purpose, as his own discharged policemen. Whenever they were employed, he respected their authority and submitted to arrest."

If the writer of the above was unaware of its inaccuracies when it was written, he ought, at least, to have apologized to the public, yesterday, when, for the first time, the affidavit of Coroner PERRY was published in the Journal's columns. Instead of performing this act of simple justice, the leader of that paper is once more devoted to plastering up the Mayor's criminality, which it no longer wholly dares to deny. It cannot do this, however, without again, in direct contradiction to its editorial report in another column, denying that a properly qualified officer attempted to make the arrest, and attributing the whole difficulty to the Metropolitan Police, who, in the eye of the law, had nothing to do with the matter. It says:

"But it was determined by the eminently-pacific State Police Commissioners, and Recorder SMITH, to compel him to receive it from one of his discharged Policemen,—discharged for insubordination, and now a member of the State Police force. Hence the trouble which followed. And here, as we stated yesterday, was, in our view, the Mayor's chief mistake. However imprudent and rash it was on the part of these gentlemen, especially in the then highly excited state of the public mind, to insist on this point, it would have been wise in the Mayor to comply. By refusing, he put himself on the wrong side of the law, and gave his opponents an advantage which they did not fail to use."

Be it remembered that the same page of the Journal which contains this last quotation—nearly every line of which is tantamount to an untruth—gives in full the sworn testimony of Coroner PERRY, that he was "turned out of the Mayor's office" while there to perform the duty which the writer insists was exclusively intrusted to Metropolitan Policemen! When so staid a paper as the Journal of Commerce can thus be carried out of its latitude by prejudice and passion, what can be expected from more mercurial dispositions? If the confessions of the News are added to the Journal's blind dogmatism, and the ravings of the Mayor's organ, the Herald, and all three are compared with the simple, historical facts of the case, an accurate view may be obtained, not only of the depth of the atrocities into which Mayor WOOD has fallen, but also of the means by which he vainly seeks to justify himself to the public.

Logic of the Fist.

We took occasion recently to draw attention to the fact that physical strength was gradually taking the place of everything else, as a qualification for public officers. Reports, decisions, cases, commentaries, text books, year books, quibbles, quiddets, quirks, are all becoming so much useless lumber. Society is simplifying. The public service is, henceforward, to be carried on by dint of hard knocks.

We must observe that we intended our remarks more especially to apply to rival candidates for public offices. We wished to establish the great fact, a fact as noteworthy as any to which this age has given birth, that with a freedom from stupid forms, and a superiority to the arts of chicane and intrigue, which reflects the highest credit upon our social as well as political organization, the work of Government promised ere long to be carried on by men who had fought their way to eminence, not by tricks of the tongue, or wiles of the brain, but by the use of those weapons with which nature has gifted them—their fists. What nobler spectacle has been witnessed in any country or at any period, than a host of functionaries administering the affairs of a great people, not in virtue of the warrant of tyrant rulers, or the votes of a fickle populace, but in virtue of the profession of sinewy arms and hard knuckles. What prouder device was ever borne upon a municipal escutcheon than that which promises, ere long, to be the only one worthy of ours—than a brawny hand, a black eye, and a bloody nose. When some Albany junto of some future day shall ask our sons for the commissions by which they claim their places, they may adopt with greater applicability, and a more touching simplicity, the language of the old Scotch baron, when one of the JAMES' asked for his title deeds. "This is my title deed," said he, pointing to his sword. "By this I acquired my lands and with this I shall defend them." If the Mayor of New-York, in a century to come, is ever served with a quo warranto, the world will ring with applause when he, the chief of bruisers, presents himself before a bench of other bruisers, and makes the proud return, "By this club I acquired my office, and with this club I will retain it."

Our object, in recurring to this subject to-day, is to draw attention to the fact that the principle which is working so complete a change in the personnel of our Government is making itself felt, also, in the learned professions. The lawyers have been always remarkable for their ready adaptability to the wants and changes of the times. They, too, are evidently recognizing the great truth by which society at large will soon be leavened, that the battle should be to the strong alone—that the prize-ring is, after all, the true Court of last resort, and a well-delivered punch in the head is worth volumes of fusty precedents and yards of special pleadings. The first symptom of this change in legal sentiment was afforded by that eminent jurist, whose reputation has now reached the very confines of civilization—Mr. BUSTEED. That "learned person," as the text-books say, vindicated, at great personal risk, and at the cost of much obloquy and misrepresentation, the great doctrine that any book, paper, map, or document, of which counsel can obtain possession in Court, he may lawfully retain, sic et armis, as long as he is able.

To a broad declaration from the other side of the Bench, that gentleman replied—and we call the attention of all young lawyers to this point—by advancing in a menacing manner, intimating, we presume, a readiness to [illegible] We would recommend precedence, however, who purpose resorting to this proceeding, to perform this last movement with turned up coat-cuffs. The principle once established, its application is naturally spreading. As soon as clients know that their lawyers' duties are not simply confined to writing and speaking, but may also extend to assault, battery, forcible seizure, pester and rescue, the large men will naturally creep sooner into practice. BUSTEED's precedent has been carefully followed, as may be seen by what occurred in PAROT's case on Wednesday. The prisoner, while still in the hands of an officer—whether rightly or wrongly so held in custody, was, under the old system, a matter for the decision of one of the Courts, passing upon the sufficiency of a return to a writ of habeas corpus. Since the recent change, it appears that the proper course for a man's legal adviser to pursue, when he conceives his client to be unlawfully detained in custody, is to rescue him by main force. This was precisely the course pursued by Messrs. GALBRAITH and TOWNSHEND at noonday and in full thoroughfare. We congratulate the legal profession upon the spirit and ingenuity displayed by these able members of their body. A few more such exploits and the New-York Bar will be able to boast men, before whose robust and vigorous frames, and dexterous pugilism, the graceful eloquence of MANSFIELD and the well ordered lore of KENT will pale their ineffectual fires. We sincerely hope the great lights of the Bar in past times sleep soundly in their graves. If they ever hover round the haunts which their genius once hallowed, and drink in the "forensis strepitus" by which their ears were once refreshed, they must be strangely surprised by some of the men who have succeeded them. Who cannot fancy SOMERS, in the rich autumn of his glorious life, advising a rising junior that he owed it to himself, as a barrister and a gentleman, when all other expedients failed, to rescue his client by force from the hands of the officers of justice?

Flighty Advice from Lawyers.

"What have you done with your client?" asked an old justice of a distinguished lawyer, as he returned alone from the consultation room, adjoining the judicial chambers, but which he had entered in company with a citizen charged with horse-stealing. "If your Honor pleases," was the answer, "when I was assigned as his counsel, you told me to take him into yonder room, and give him the best advice I could. I have heard his case, and the best advice I could give him was to run."

The Court took no steps to punish the facetious advocate, but, if rumor be true, the District-Attorney is preparing the proper affidavits on which to move for the dis-barring from the Court rolls of the two legal gentlemen who, a few days ago, advised Monsieur PAROT, after the fashion of Jo. MILLER, a counselor. Messrs. TOWNSHEND and GALBRAITH, his attorneys, have been fighting for his liberty, in connection with counsel BUSTEED, with a zeal worthy of a less lame and impotent conclusion. The "PAROT" in question has been a jail-bird for some time, and his "how-dye-does," parrot-like, have been given to the passers-by of the Eldridge-street cage in rather broken English. No one finds fault with him for putting in leg bail, or, according to his native custom, taking French leave of the Sheriff; but his advisers to flight will have an account to settle hereafter with their professional brethren, the Court, and the public.

Some years ago Counselor BUSTEED not only advised an extradition client to flight, but actually ran with him a certain distance; and, unfortunately, ran before and not behind, or the charitable would have said he was attempting a recapture. No notice was taken of this highly unprofessional act.

Messrs. TOWNSHEND and GALBRAITH, perhaps, taking courage from this former inattention from justice, each held the Deputy Sheriff by an arm, whilst the client fled, leaving to the officer a slight souvenir du voyage in the shape of liability to the snug sum of half a million of dollars. Meantime, whilst the Courts and Grand Jury are to consider what shall be done with these lawyers, who are evidently believers in the Lord Brougham obligation of fidelity to clients in all extremities, every good citizen who may encounter the stray PAROT are requested to return him to the debtors' cage, where the Sheriff has in readiness a large-sized "cracker."

Exhibition of the National Academy.

THIRD NOTICE.

We closed our last notice of the Academy Exhibition with a word upon Mr. PEALE's agreeable little picture of the "Sound of the Shell." A harmonious instinct leads us to the same artist's "Music of the Reeds," (No. 529,) which has fewer faults and fewer merits, too, than its companion work. The two paintings seen in contrasted combination make up, however, a very pleasant duet. The coloring of the No. 529 is impaired by the same thickness and murkiness of tone upon which we found occasion to remark in speaking of the "Sound of the Shell." This is particularly true of the draperies of the figure and of the trees—the carnations being on the whole more pure and pleasing than those of the No. 529, and the distance full of feeling and of fidelity to Nature. The characterization of this little brown-haired rustic maiden, like that of her flaxen-tressed sister of the shore, leaves very little to be desired. If we wished to ornament our palatial residence with a series of characteristic pictures of children, we should count upon such an artist as Mr. PEALE with confidence.

Hardly so upon such an artist as Mr. GIGNOUX, whose otherwise fine landscapes are singularly defective in regard to this special quality of typical truth. Mr. GIGNOUX paints what he sees very well, but he does not see so well what he should paint.

Take, for instance, the "View on the Saguenay," No. 427, painted for the late Lord ELLESMERE, and destined to revive upon the walls of Bridgewater House the splendid souvenirs which all travelers must bring away from the wildest and most magnificent of Canadian, and, for the matter of that, of American rivers. Who that remembers that wonderful stream, with its grand sweeps and breadths of duskily gleaming waters—with its stupendous barriers of rock, and its stately fringes of "forest primeval," will recognize the "Saguenay" in this picture of purple cliffs and naked pines, wherein the river is hinted at as an accident, and a bit of the shore scenery made the prominent subject of the artist's skill? The cliffs and the pines are treated, certainly, with a great deal of power, though their effect would have been improved by a slight suggestion of atmosphere—but the picture is not in the least a satisfactorily characteristic picture. The same criticism must be made, with very little less vivacity, upon Mr. GIGNOUX's picture, No. 476, of the "Seven Falls" of Canada—in which, moreover, we have to question the water. In an allegorical representation of Goshen, for instance, or of any other land which "flows with milk and honey," this cataract of cream might be legitimate enough. We don't believe it is to be seen as the "Seven Falls."

Here, after all, is one of Mr. KENSETT's leading merits. His scenes are always recognizable. If you do not know their geological names you are struck at once by their appropriateness and reality. You feel that if you saw the scene which Mr. KENSETT paints, you should never despair to sketch it. How true this is of such a picture as his No. 359. The waves of the sea are "put in" a little prosaically, perhaps, but how excellently composed, how complete a unity the picture is! Mr. HART, again, has something of this same peculiar power. His "October Afternoon in the Tropics" (No. 135) is one of the most individual landscapes in the collection—pervaded with a true and tender autumnal sentiment—a well-conceived, harmonized, thoroughly agreeable picture—very much such a picture as we can fancy that DURAND would paint were he to lose a little knowledge and to gain a little inspiration. There is visibility, too, in another landscape, not far from this of Mr. HART's. "Nightfall in the Wilderness," by Mr. STILLMAN (No. 172)—with something of affected mannerism under a singular obscurity of feeling and close fidelity to natural effects. Is reminds us of all we like and all we dislike in WORMSWORTH's sonnets upon scenery. Mr. STILLMAN's picture has a neighbor, too, in Mr. DANA's "Waiting for the Fishing-Boat," (No. 177) which must not be passed over without notice. This is a scene on the Norman coast, and shows a true feeling for sea-shore effects which is as delightful as it is rare, among our artists. The treatment is rather conventional, but the picture is a picture of promise.

For our other landscapists, from whom we had hoped much on looking over the catalogue, we have not received all that we hoped for. SHATTUCK, COLMAN, HOTCHKISS, all clever and advancing artists, have disappointed us this year by their evident cliquesism. "That way destruction lies," and we can't afford to lose such people as these. Mr. GIFFORD, whose pictures of former years we remember with interest, sends from England one lovely little cabinet picture of Stratford-on-Avon (No. 477,) which is a temptation to Shakespearian eyes and a peril to poetic pockets. It is, indeed, worthy of a much abused epithet, now grown almost ridiculous, though nothing can be prettier or more appropriate than the feeling it portrays when applied to such a picture—"it is really a gem." For a gem is something which you wish to associate with yourself and your daily life, and one would like to hang such pictures as this in the coziest nook of his library. Not so most of this year's portraits!

Perhaps there exists no intrinsic reason for the dreariness of exhibited portraits. In fact, we are sure that no such reason exists. For, after all, what is more worthy of the painter's art than a human face, with all the wonderful history of a human soul written out upon its balanced proportions! Nevertheless, exhibited portraits are dreary, and those of this year do form no exception to the sad rule.

There are foolish portraits—portraits so simpering, so conscious, so imbecile of expression, that you blush for your kind in looking on them, and feel as one feels when he hears a speaker trip in his discourse and stammer for half an hour, blundering onward through a maze of verbless nominatives, and of unlimbered antecedents. There are insolent portraits, portraits that provoke you to put up your lorgnette and prepare for an exchange of cards. There are insignificant portraits; portraits of the people who always lose their seats in the theatre, and never get up to the ticket office of a railway when there is a full train starting; there are ridiculous portraits—portraits of people who bought new suits of clothes to be painted in, or put on their Winter garments at Midsummer—of people who strike attitudes impossible in ordinary life, or affect a spasticisat case, odious upon the canvas. But of quiet, yet effective, earnestly studied and powerfully painted portraits, reproducing the true characteristics of a certain man or woman, there is, alas! a plentiful lack on most occasions, as there is upon the present occasion, no overflowing supply thereof furnished to us. On the whole, the best picture of this class, (though not a pleasing one by any means,) is Mr. PAGE's "Roman Mother and Child," (No. 548.) The tone of this picture is vexatious enough, but it is wonderfully colored, and drawn with infinite feeling and force. There is no mistaking this type. It is the proud Trasteverine face, the grand strong Trasteverine figure—in many ways a wonderful little picture—which renews our regret that PAGE's fine portrait of BROWNING should not have had a fair chance of being seen at the London Exhibition of last year. HICKS has a single portrait—in fact, a single picture, (No. 459,)—which might have been called an apotheosis of HENRY WARD BEECHER. That emphatic and thorough-going divine appears on Mr. HICK's canvas in the aureole of a silver-gray glory, "sitting clothed and in his right mind," as it would appear, for his face has evidently been washed with unusual severity, and the whole man is redolent of soap and water, brushes and the toilet. It is an inanimate "feast of purification." Also, it is a very clever, though a whimsical picture, and is modeled with very great power. Not so Mr. ELLIOTT's pictures, which are singularly feeble and uneven; in tone and in treatment unworthy of his great and proved ability; nor do we much delight in Mr. HEALY's most ambitious work, the "Portrait of a Lady," (No. 480.) The details of this picture are remarkably good, but the likeness is unsatisfactory, and the coloring crude and cold—altogether not a picture to be coveted by any admirer of the fair original, nor by an amateur of portraits in the mass. Mr. HUNTINGTON has done better. His portraits of Mr. GULIAN C. VERPLANCK, (No. 86,) and Mr. MORTIMER LIVINGSTON, (No. 110,) are not only capital portraits in the matter of resemblance, but very agreeable and life-like pictures. His "Earl of Carlisle," (No. 19,) is more common-place and conventional, though clever. Mr. BAKER, as usual, paints like a successful limner, and young Mr. E. D. E. GREENE has made real progress towards a very high position in his art. His pictures (Nos. 55 and 274) are among the most earnestly studied in the Exhibition, and show a genuine feeling both for character and for color. He wants technical and anatomical knowledge, and a larger esthetic philosophy alone to put himself among the peers. Mr. FAGUANI, whose eye is singularly faithful, and who rarely fails to seize a face, has this year given us some notable physiognomies, the most remarkable of which are those of Dr. KANE, (No. 269,) painted, as the catalogue tells us, for Sir HENRY L. BULWER, and of Governor KING (No. 124.) The large group by this artist, of a mother and three children is so badly hung that we cannot judge of its merits. Of crayon portraits, which we do not much affect, and of miniatures, which we almost alone among extant mortals do affect, the show is this year just respectable. Mr. LAWRENCE has a number of indifferent portraits, and one capital one (No. 344.) Mr. ROWAN has several, and Mr. STUGE has two charming drawings, one of a lady (No. 349) and one of a boy, (No. 351,) finished with refined grace and firm truth of design. The same artist, whose name ought to be at least as much honored in his own city as it is by an Athenian Census, gives us one or two delicious miniatures. His miniature of Mr. MONROE (No. 295) is worthy of the closest study.

Mr. GEORGE FREEMAN, well known on our Academy walls in former days, reappears with two characteristic miniatures (Nos. 299 and 300) which recalls the good old ante-photographic days. Of the aristocratic pastel we have some indescribable specimens, and one truly artistic and admirable example (No. 342) which is from the pencil of M. SAMBRICH, to whom we owe also certain crayon portraits, while some water-colors of great merit, by Mr. PEALE, (particularly Nos. 399 and 403,)

OFFICE OF J. S. REED & CO., Bankers,
MARION, Ohio, June 6, 1857.
S. C. HERRING & Co.—Gents: Our banking house was broken open last night, and an unsuccessful attempt made to force open the Safe; gunpowder was used in quantities sufficient to break open in the most substantial way five feet from the safe, and to destroy papers and furniture, as well as to blow the inside of one of the outside doors into small pieces, but your Hall's Powder Proof Lock resisted all efforts to effect an entrance. The burglars left a very good selection of tools—skeleton keys, a variety of queer looking chisels, braces and bits, together with levers, &c., &c. In fact, three good strong men nearly an hour to remove the remains of the wreck so as to reach the inside door, which, of course, remained unharmed. Considering this latter circumstance together with the fact that two more doors guarded the thieves, if they had succeeded in opening the outside one, we have no hesitation in ordering a new Safe, and continuing our confidence in your "Bunker Proof Safes with Hall's Powder Proof Lock." One half the outer door is in good order. Can you make the other from pattern in your books, or shall we send the ruins down to you?
We feel under so much obligation to you for the protection your safe has afforded us, that we would be glad to make any use you may choose of this statement.
Very respectfully, J. S. REED & CO.
The subscribers have on hand, for sale, the largest assortment of FIRE AND BURGLAR PROOF SAFES in the world, guaranteed to be equal to the above, and superior to any other now in use.

SOUTH AMERICA NEW PEOPLED, AND NOT BY FILLIBUSTERISM.

A REVOLUTION THAT WILL BE HAILED WITH JOY BY ALL PARENTS.—Every climate has its peculiar inconvenience, and every face of men some disease to which they are more peculiarly liable. Here in North America, tens of thousands are yearly hurried to their graves by consumption, while in South and Central America the vast majority of the population carry in their veins or on their bodies, the festering and disgusting evidences of their own or their fathers' follies. Hereditary syphilis, with all its horrid train of diagnostics and results—the punishment of unbridled appetites and the mark set by nature against promiscuous intercourse—this foul and hideous disorder has run riot through generation after generation in the country of the troyles; and heretofore all attempts to [illegible] constitutional virus from the system have met with not the slightest success.

[illegible] in the blood, in the bones, in the marrow, [illegible] doctors," and with that contemptible opinion [illegible] their patients to despair. But it has been [illegible] that RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT, when [illegible] decided, when necessary, by the READY RELIEF and REGULATORS, has absolute control over the disease. [illegible] can not only check all outward indications of it, [illegible] of time most incredibly short, but can eliminate [illegible] taint of the subtle and pervading poison from the [illegible] and give back to the deteriorated blood that vitality and purity which it lost in descending through the veins of a corrupt and unfortunate parentage. The importance of this discovery it would be impossible to overestimate, and we feel justified in predicting from it, that before [illegible] years a new race of healthy and vigorous men and women and children will be found in the place of the present emaciated and ulcerated sufferers who excite the pity of [illegible] European and American travelers as they pass through the smiling landscapes of that country.

[illegible] save the spirit of man, is divine.

Advice [illegible] ever visited South America must admit that we do not exaggerate when we state that at present it would be difficult to find any single native without more or less of the effects of the syphilitic disease observable in [illegible] his mental and physical constitution. Some owe their wretchedness to their own uncurbed and riotous passions; but by far the greater number have inherited the [illegible] poison from their parents, either immediately or remote, and we have known cases in which the [illegible] taint has been transmitted for as many as five generations, and with every transmission the succeeding [illegible] became more emaciated and powerless in their bodies, (though without any external ulcer,) and more debased and imbecile in intellect.

In fact, therefore, too much to say that the discovery of a [illegible] cure for this constitutional virus assumes the [illegible] of a great national regeneration; and the [illegible] that the R. R. R. will in less than a quarter of a [illegible] have given a new race of healthy, active and [illegible] people to the whole of this long distracted [illegible] rather a dejection of tone than the [illegible] of any over-sanguine hope. We know the [illegible] by which we speak and cannot be mistaken in their [illegible] Renovating Resolvent utterly extirpates the [illegible] system, and the Ready Relief and Regulators [illegible] the organs of secretion to that condition of [illegible] and health in which pure blood is pumped [illegible] the place of the corrupt and noxious particles.

[illegible] greatly tend to facilitate and develop the [illegible] we have in view if the Government [illegible] Central America would combine together [illegible] some scheme for the further and faster introduction [illegible] by which (and by which only [illegible] can be accomplished; but with [illegible] such assistance, the discovery once made cannot [illegible]

Laboratory, Middle Village, L. I., where every variety of beautiful designs, many of which are entirely new, will be found.
Mr. H. has no doubt his customers will be sufficiently satisfied with the quality of his works without his enumerating the number of premiums received (he has a few) at the late fairs, which has long since become almost a byword. Sufficient to say that he will challenge the world to produce any better works, and is perfectly willing, if necessary, to test the same in any way where there are impartial parties to decide. The subscriber pledges himself that everything shall be as represented. Goods delivered in any part of the City free of charge.

AT A MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIrectors of the METROPOLITAN BANK, held on the 8th inst., it was resolved to increase the Capital Stock, $1,000,000; say, from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.
Books will be opened at the Banking House, No. 210 Broadway, on the 1st day of July next, and remain open until the 15th of said month. Those holding stock at the close of business on the 30th of June next, will be entitled to subscribe at par for said addition of additional capital, and will receive one share of new stock for every three shares of old. They will also have the right to exercise the privilege of subscribing, for which purpose a form will be furnished.
Shareholders will have the right to pay in full on the 1st day of July next; if not so do, there will be no charge of interest. Those who do not pay at that time, are required to pay 50 per cent on or before the 15th of July, and the remaining 50 per cent on or before the 15th day of October next.
Interest at 7 per cent per annum from the 1st day of July, will be added to all instalments paid after that day, in order to make all the payments equal to a full payment on the 15th day of July.
Per contra, scrip receipts will be issued; but whenever a shareholder shall pay the full amount due on his subscription, he shall be entitled, at once, to the usual certificate of full paid stock. All shareholders will have the benefit of the dividend which may be paid in January, 1858.
Shareholders at a distance, wishing to take the stock they will be entitled to, may make their subscriptions to the new stock by sending to this Bank, duly signed and witnessed, a power of attorney.
It is very desirable that such shareholders as intend to avail themselves of the opportunity to subscribe, or who wish to assign their rights to others, should do so previous to the 1st of July, if practicable, but certainly by the 10th.
It will be necessary for parties to whom such rights shall be assigned, to appear at the Bank, in person, or by attorney, to sign the articles of the Association.
GEORGE L. SENEY, Cashier.

SIX PER CENT. LOAN OF THE COMMONwealth of MASSACHUSETTS.—The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad Company, by virtue of an Act of the General Court, hereby give notice that they will receive sealed proposals until the 30th inst.; at noon, at the Office of the Treasurer of the Commonwealth, at the State House in Boston, for the purchase of the scrip of the Commonwealth of four hundred thousand dollars, payable July 1, 1877, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, from the 1st day of July, 1857, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and July, on the coupons attached to said scrip, at the Treasurer's Office in the city of Boston. A deposit of 10 per cent. of the amount of each proposal will be required on their opening, to insure final payment; the whole amount of the loan to be paid on or before the 20th inst. Proposals may be made for any part of the above loan, not less than five thousand dollars. They must specify the amount or premium offered, (none otherwise will be received,) and must also give the address of the party making the proposals, and be inclosed in an envelope marked "Proposals for Massachusetts State Loan," and be addressed to MOSES TENNEY, Jr., Treasurer and Receiver-General of the Commonwealth, at the State House, Boston. The right is reserved to reject all or any part of the proposals made.

INTERESTING FROM HAVANA.

ARRIVAL OF THE BLACK WARRIOR.

The United States steamer Black Warrior, J. W. Dana Commander, sailed from New-Orleans 16th inst., and Havana at noon the 18th, arrived at this port early yesterday evening.

Santa Ana had not arrived at Havana.

The Spanish fleet intended for the Mexican difficulty was said to be near the Island, and soldiers are arriving by every vessel from Spain.

The Island is quiet and healthy. No fever as yet reported.

Sugar market more as last advices; holders are firm in their demands, [illegible] hhds. stock at Matanzas and Matanzas as previously reported.

Freights very dull, though many vessels have left in ballast; the tonnage exceeds the wants of shippers.

Exchange declining. 60 days on New-York is quoted at [illegible] premium.

The Spanish Fleet Not Yet Arrived—Santa Anna's Proclamation to the Mexicans—Recall of Consular-General Gamboa, and Appointment of his Successor, &c.

HAVANA, Sunday, June 14, 1857.

As yet there are no signs of the squadron, though it is now due here. The flag-ship will be towed here by the [illegible] Francisco de Asis, and two other steamers have been chartered here to meet the other vessels and tow them to Havana. Steps have been planned in the harbor for the expected vessels, which will serve to block up the harbor more effectually than ever, so that the whole merchant marine is to be put to a great inconvenience, simply because the Spanish Admiral likes to display his force to the strangers that throng our port. This is little national pride may be readily pardoned in those who are about to repeat the heroical achievements of Cortez and his followers.

The last English steamer from St. Thomas brought out General SANTA ANA's proclamation to the Mexican people. It is a lengthy affair, but interesting in the present state of European intrigues. Large sums have been sent to Vera Cruz for distribution. The Spanish officials here seem very active in the business, and no obstacle has been placed in the way of sending the bullets containing the papers in this city. It is currently reported that he will arrive here in the latter part of this month. The destruction of his partisans, who have prematurely raised the standard of revolution in Mexico and other cities may retard his coming.

General CONCHA has been recalled, and LEMERUR appointed in his place. CONCHA will leave here in the French mail packet on the 15th of August, if his successor does not come before that time. A large party is being made up by his intimate friends to accompany him to Paris. The cause of this sudden change of fortune against him is that the English Ambassador at Madrid has demanded his recall for openly countenancing the African trade, and accompanied the requisition with such powerful evidence that MARFARI has had no other choice than to consent to the necessity. This fact has affected CONCHA deeply, as he has always been ambitious to merit the good reputation ascribed to him by the English Press.

He has no one to blame but himself, for $50,000 per annum ought to place a man beyond the influence of gold. That he has participated in the bribes lavishly expended by the slave dealers no one here pretends to deny, and he has been so negligent in this respect that even his friends have been obliged to confess that the slave-trade has been more active since the year 1856 than was ever known before. At least twenty expeditions have been fitted out at this port to my own knowledge, and there is no way of finding out the exact number of the cargoes successfully landed.

The English Government also complained of the abuse committed by the under-officers of this Island in granting "coolies" to men whose sole occupation was the slave trade, and who were supplied with the facilities for carrying it on, apparently with the sanction of the laws. When he was recalled before, he had a decree signed who wrote the book published under his name in defence of the several acts of his administration, but that decree friend was canceled for his attachment. We will see who he procures to save his reputation now.

The French steamers now employed in carrying the mails between the Island and Spain, are about to change their flag, provided the Cortes approves their contract, which has been given for ten years. The Alma has a full list of passengers and cargo on her return trip.

The yellow fever has diminished a little in virulence since my last, and but few new cases are reported. The weather has improved considerably since the frequent showers.

INTERESTING FROM ALBANY.

The Court of Appeals—Metropolitan Police Bill—Prospect of an Early Decision—The Broadway Railroad Case—The State Bankrupt—Defalcation of County Treasurers—The Averill Ore Bed.

ALBANY, Thursday, June 18, 1857.

The arguments, pro and con, on the constitutionality of the Metropolitan Police Bill, before the big wigs of the Court of Appeals, were closed this morning by Judge EMMETT, on the part of FERNANDO. Those who have listened to the entire argument, while representing it as extremely able on both sides, give especial commendation to Mr. EVARTS for the ability and clearness with which he presented his side of the question.

It is said that the necessities of the case will impel a somewhat more rapid revolution of the judicial wheels than is general, that the "Circumlocution Office" will be closed for a time, and that we may anticipate from their Honors a decision as is a decision" some time in all of the coming week. It is of course going into deep-sea soundings to attempt a conjecture as to what that decision will be. I think, however, in the opening of the Court the sympathies of the Judges were against the constitutionality of the Metropolitan Police Act. In nine cases out of ten that you may present to the Court of last resort, if the question has a political bearing, or is even argued by counsel of strong partisan antecedents, the sympathies of the Judges will have quite as much influence in determining their judgments as law or equity. My observation daily tends to strengthen this estimate of the character of the Judiciary, and I think it would be fully sustained by a careful analysis of the parties and causes that have passed through the Appeals since its organization.

Stripped of all its surroundings, and presented to the Judges in a quiet, regular way, I think they would have pronounced the Metropolitan Police bill unconstitutional. There seems to be ambiguity and elasticity enough in the fundamental law to justify a wide difference of opinion—a multiplicity of views, doubts and contradictions—and such a decision might have been made without incurring any general charge of a special dereliction of the judicial conscience.

But the rashness of the Mayor—his unwarrantable assumptions of power—his iniquitous attempts to control or to override the constituted tribunals—the infamous character of those by whom he is surrounded—his bold and determined violation of the public peace, and his wicked and wanton disregard of the public good—have, unfortunately for him, come up to the Court, side by side with his appeal against the Constitutionality of the new Police bill. These confront the Court, in any aspect in which his case could be presented, and must with their crimson hues obliterate the coloring of right and justice, in which his counsel presented his position—though it were painted in hues a myriad times more brilliant. The Court must regard and uphold the Legislative authority, when it comes in conflict with individual opinion—it must, in such a crisis, give the benefit of every doubt to that side which best promises by precept and example to promote the public good, and to maintain the public peace. If it does not, its own existence must be imperilled—for it were idle to suppose that law may be successfully opposed by one individual, and still hold in awe and subjection the masses—it were more than folly to believe that the multitude would [illegible] defiance for the authority [illegible] by the Judges of the Court.
